Park View Academy Expands Capacity With Second Location and Opens Enrollment Across Programs

July 17, 2026

Jersey City, New Jersey - July 17, 2026 -
Park View Academy is expanding its presence in Jersey City with a second location currently under development, while accepting enrollment for its full range of infant, pre-toddler, and toddler programs at both sites to meet growing demand for quality early childhood care in the community.

The established location at 33 Park View Ave continues to serve families with its nurturing, stimulating environment focused on hands-on, experiential learning. The academy's programs incorporate the HighScope Curriculum, which emphasizes active learning through purposeful play. This child-centered approach guides children to explore, interact, and develop creativity while teachers support individual developmental needs, preparing young learners for future school success.

Park View Academy's infant program, designed for ages 6 weeks to 12 months, provides individualized schedules that respect each child's natural rhythms for feeding, sleeping, and play. The pre-toddler program, for 13 to 19 months, ignites curiosity through inquiry-based activities in literacy, math, art, science, and music, fostering independence and community belonging. For toddlers aged 20 months to 2.5 years, the curriculum supports skill acquisition and exploration using all senses in a safe, child-friendly setting with opportunities for group and individual play.

The addition of the second location will increase access to these high-quality programs, allowing more families in downtown Jersey City and surrounding areas to benefit from the academy's dedicated approach. Construction of the new facility incorporates intentional design elements to create an optimal learning space aligned with the academy's core educational philosophy.

"At Park View Academy, our expansion reflects our ongoing dedication to providing accessible, research-based early education that supports every child's growth," said Yeon Benkovitz, a co-founder of Park View Academy. "We are focused on maintaining the same standards of care and learning across both locations to ensure consistency and excellence for all enrolled children and their families."

Enrollment is now open for all age groups, with flexible options available to accommodate varying family needs. The academy partners closely with parents to cultivate lifelong learning, involving families in their children's developmental journey through regular communication and collaborative support.

Diane Branco, a co-founder of Park View Academy, added, "Our team of experienced educators remains committed to creating rich environments where children can blossom. The second location will allow us to serve more families while upholding our core values of dependability, engagement, integrity, genuineness, and continuous growth."

Both locations will feature consistent daily routines that include free play, group activities, outdoor time, meals, and rest periods. These structures promote security and predictability essential for young children's emotional and social development. The programs draw from multiple educational theories but always prioritize the individual child's best interests and holistic progress.

Park View Academy maintains a strong emphasis on safety, privacy, and quality in all operations. As enrollment expands with the new site, the academy continues to train staff to implement the HighScope approach effectively, ensuring fidelity to active learning principles across all classrooms. This professional development supports the academy's mission of continuous improvement for children, families, and the teaching team.

The expansion comes as part of Park View Academy's response to community needs for reliable, high-quality childcare options in Jersey City. Families can explore program details and tour options through the academy's established processes to determine the best fit for their young children. Outdoor activities, special projects, and socialization opportunities remain integral to daily experiences at both the current and upcoming facility.

Park View Academy is a childcare and early education provider in Jersey City committed to nurturing young minds through play-based, developmentally appropriate programs. With experienced educators and a focus on family partnerships, the academy delivers care and learning experiences that support children's cognitive, social, emotional, and physical development in welcoming environments.
